

Low-Cost Non-Profit Hospitalization for Main Line Is Near

Bryn Mawr Hospital Trustees Consider Lining Up With Philadelphia Service

VOTE IS TO BE MONDAY

Whether Bryn Mawr Hospital will line up with the new hospitalization plan of the associated hospital service, depends on approval by the board of trustees of Bryn Mawr at a meeting Monday.

Membership in the Associated Hospital Service entitles subscribers to 21 days of care each year in any one of the affiliated hospitals. Individual membership is 75 cents, husband-and-wife, $1.50, and family membership $2. per month.

Benefits include board and room (semi-private) or $1.50 per day to ward a more expensive room, all operating room expense, all medications and surgical dressings, general nursing service and the following services when performed by an employee of the hospital: X-ray examinations up to $35, laboratory work up to $25, electro-cardiograms, anesthesia and physical therapy up to $15 and metabolism tests to $10.

Thomas S. Gates, Jr., of Devon, is president of the board of directors who govern the non-profit plan.

Thomas S. Gates, Jr., lower hospital cost

The plan will enable 90 per cent of all persons hospitalized to leave the hospital without paying more than $10. Subscribers make no down payment at the hospital, but present their membership card as identification. When they leave the hospital they either receive a statement marked "paid in full" or are billed for such extras as telephone calls, newspapers and other extras not covered by the plan.

By enrolling employed persons and their families at their place of employment or through professional groups, E. A. van Steenwyk hopes to reduce administration costs to less than 10 per cent, leaving more than 90 cents out of every dollar for payment of hospital bills and for reserve against possible epidemics.

L. M. Year Book Scores

The 1938 Enchiridion, high school yearbook has received the All-America rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. Miss Margaret Fleck, advisor, states that 116 books were entered in the class and that L. M. totaled 1010 points, ten above the necessary.

Other advisors of the staff were—Miss Agnes Rayercraft and Frank V. Rinehart. Dick Metius was editor.

Annual Banquet

Of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion,

will be held at the Legion Room of Narberth's community building next Friday evening, Armistice Day. Chief speaker will be Dr. Charles Swope, president of the State Teachers' College at West Chester, who addressed the local Rotary Club recently. Musical entertainment will be different, the committee promises, than ever before.

Walter Mieson, recent commander, will receive the past commander's medal, and it is expected the Legion Award will be presented to Narberth's leading citizen of the year.

The committee in charge includes William Durbin, Henry Frye, Frank Dwyer, Frank Challenger and Robert Collins, who will be toastmaster.

Political Pot

Joseph G. Kane, Democratic candidate for state legislature, addressed three hundred party members in Elm hall Tuesday. The program was in charge of committeemen Joseph Magarity, Robert Wright and William Lafore.

Peter C. Hess, chairman of the Republican township committee, was host at a dinner Tuesday night at Whitehall, Haverford. The committee heard Louis Fretz, head of the county election bureau, answer questions on voting technicalities.

Governor George H. Earle, Haverford, will again wind up his campaign on the Main Line, a plan followed for the past four years.

He will be principal speaker Monday night at a rally in Masonic hall, Ardmore avenue, Ardmore. Other speakers will include Secretary of Internal Affairs Thomas A. Logue, Overbrook, candidate for re-election; State Commissioner of Insurance Owen B. Hunt, former Bryn Mawr resident; and Justice H. Edgar Barnes, Overbrook. John T. Durnin, Overbrook Hills, Lower Merion and Narberth Democratic chairman, will preside.

Governor and Mrs. Earle will be escorted from their home to Masonic hall by a delegation headed by the drum and bugle corps of the Archer-Epler Post, American Legion, Upper Darby, national champion of Legion post musical outfits.

Specially invited guests who will have seats on the speaking platform will include Mrs. George H. Earle, Jr., mother of the Governor; Attorney Francis Hayes, Norristown, Democratic state committeeman from Montgomery county; Dr. Charles J. Fenwick, professor of political economy at Bryn Mawr college; Miss Gertrude S. Ely, Bryn Mawr; George H. Earle, 4th, son of the governor; Mrs. George H. Earle, wife of the governor; Attorney Frank A. Harrigan, Cynwyd; John C. Morlock, secretary of the state senate, and Ledyard H. Heck-scher, Wynnewood.

"Last minute election points" will be given the Republican Women of Pennsylvania Monday, 2.30, at Hannah Penn House.

Narberth Players

The monthly meeting is scheduled for Tuesday in Elm Hall. An exceptionally good program, including a fine one-act play, will be followed by community singing with Mrs. Ed. Pollock at the piano. Members will bring friends at a guest price.

Names in the News

The genial Gene Davis, 40 pounds heavier than when typhoid had him, returned this week to Davis' Store, after two months of convalescence in Ocean City.

His editorial wins prize

Second prize in a nation-wide editorial contest on "The most valuable traffic club activity for the future" was awarded last week to Walton Wentz, 205 Wayne avenue, Narberth, for his article in the October "Traffic Messenger," of which he is editor. The magazine is published for the 600 members of the Traffic Club of Philadelphia, and the cash award was presented at the annual meeting of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, in Cleveland. Mr. Wentz, borough treasurer, the only Democrat in the town's official family, is publicity representative of the Pennsylvania Railroad's eastern division.

A bouquet for Margaret Harshaw, contralto, and former resident of Narberth who is to sing on the Metropolitan Opera auditions this Sunday afternoon, on their regular program over WJZ from 5 to 5.30 P. M.

Yesterday the Philadelphia real estate board elected Boyd T. Barnard, 528 Lafayette, Merion Park Manor, president. A member of the Jackson-Cross company, Mr. Barnard succeeds Roland R. Randall in office.

Newest addition, this month, to Narberth's colony of sports celebrities is Ray Hill, Philadelphia sports writer, who is moving into the new Montgomery Court, Narberth and Price avenues.

Tom Elwood, 110 Forest, Narberth, becomes editor of "Car," AAA publication of the Philadelphia Automobile Club, next Monday. For a year he was Our Town's—and the past month, TOWN and TOWNSHIP's—publisher, editor, ad. manager, etc. New management of the paper, which of course, will continue to be published, will be announced later.

Around the Town

Christmas decorations will be seen on Narberth's main street again this year, thanks to a decision of the business council which has voted to light up Haverford avenue from December 9 to January 1.

At a special meeting of the business council, merchants were informed of the decision to put the 30 minute parking plan on trial. Merchants were urged to co-operate fully. Letters are to be sent to local families acquainting them with the plan and advising them of the increased opportunity to shop in the borough.

Entering a basement window of the Methodist Episcopal church, Essex and Price, a thief last Sunday attempted to open a safe. It was empty.

Frank Dreher, Philadelphia, has purchased the old Wascon home, 115 N. Narberth, and expects to reside there after extensive repairs have been made. Mr. Dreher is a funeral director.

At a hearing at the Ardmore station, Jane Felix, Harcum junior college student, of 343 Brookway, Merion, told Magistrate Walter B. Lowmes, Jr., she thought the white car following her down the Montgomery pike was a cleaner's truck. It wasn't. On State Police charges, she was fined $12.25 for speeding.

Art Week Brings Beautiful Window Displays . . . Scores of Exhibitors

"The show must go on," was a decision made just two short weeks ago by a committee that assumed responsibility for the Main Line's participation in American Art Week. Artists and Merchants worked with the committee in making this a most attractive exhibition. Evidence of their efforts is particularly noticeable at the Narberth Coal Company, who have turned their two entire windows into a beautiful display. The Egyptian Theater built special background on their promenade to take care of some 35 paintings, and the public is cordially invited to view them after they have enjoyed the show downstairs. All along the Main Line the shops have created artistic displays and the complete list of them, as well as the artists participating, is given below—

Work With Youth, Rotary Topic

At the meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth club Tuesday, George Casey, secretary of the Big Brothers' Association of Philadelphia, stressed the advantages of working with boys in developing citizenship. He pointed out that youth needs the help of older persons in trying to solve the problems which beset him and that, if the boy helped is of average intelligence, any work that may be done with him is worth while.

Guests were William G. Frankenhoff, John T. Bregger, Al Edgar, George W. Casey, School Superintendent S. Edgar Downs, Oldtimer Luther Parsons, Dr. George Emerson Barnes, and George Casey's friend, John J. Cabrey.

The Parking Problem Religious Census Near Close, With Favoring Results

Narberth and Ardmore Give Shopper a Break

After a flurry of hasty protest from business people in this town, Narberth has decided to take steps toward alleviating the parking problem on Haverford avenue, between Narberth and Essex, by giving a full trial to the new 30-minute parking regulation.

The shortened limit for parking is intended to give more shoppers a chance to use local stores. Close tabulation will be made during the trial and merchants will then be given an opportunity to discuss the merits of the plan.

Ardmore's drive against non-shopper parkers in the business section is on. Close check-up of the length of time that cars are parked, and the placing of cards in cars of non-shoppers are features of the campaign.

The cards read: "To give our customers a chance to park, please co-operate. Your automobile is taking space that could accommodate from one to five customers' cars every hour. Will you please hereafter use rear parking lots off business streets or side business streets beyond stores? If you do your part as other non-shoppers are doing, Ardmore will always have ample parking facilities for all its customers."

A WORD RE WOOLMINGTON

The Chairman Handles Mammoth Task and in Addition Has Planning Commission Duties

Clarence H. Woolmington.

Narberth Park, is chairman of the committee directing 200 Narberth churchmen and women in the religious census of the Eastern Main Line, which began last Sunday and ends this week-end. It was his mammoth job to supervise assigning names of over 10,000 voters in 3,000-some homes, to the census-takers, and it will be his task to supervise collating of information which ministers of the co-operating churches will act upon.

Results so far are highly favorable. Many a resident has commented, "I've lived here eight years or so, and this is the first time I've been invited to attend a local church."

"Information for census takers," mimeographed page handed all the callers, gives 15 directions that might well serve as models for information-getters anywhere. Among the points:

"If you do not get information on first call, try, try again. Use telephone only as a last resort. Get information first-hand. A visit may be what some people are looking for. . . You can obtain the name of your next call by asking the party you are visiting. Calling people by name helps. . . See occupants of homes, not maids; they very often give wrong information."

Mr. Woolmington, an architect, is secretary of the Narberth Planning Commission, at whose meeting next Monday evening, in Elm Hall, there will be considered the elimination, through co-operation with the township, of the dangerous blind corner at Montgomery pike and Wynnewood road.

Civic Group Leaders Agree to Ask Lower Phone Toll Charge to Philadelphia . . . Same as Merion

Representatives of 18 groups in Narberth planned to seek a lower telephone rate for calls to Philadelphia when they met Tuesday night in the town's Legion room.

The meeting was called by Ralph S. Dunne, who represented Business Council as president.

After lengthy discussion it was agreed to communicate with Bell Telephone Company officials in an effort to secure a five-cent rate to Philadelphia in place of the present charge of ten cents.

Jean Allen, secretary of the Penn Valley Association, and Dunne were appointed a committee of two to confer with telephone company officials next week.

Mr. Dunne pointed out that Merion and Cynwyd have a five-cent rate to Philadelphia. Their calls are handled by the Cynwyd exchange, as are Narberth calls. (See "Open House," page 2.)

Narberth residents now may phone only to those sections of the city west of the Schuylkill, for five cents. Dunne

Ralph S. Dunne . . . for lower phone cost said that geographically speaking, parts of Narberth are closer to the city than some parts of Merion, where the five-cent rate has been in effect.

Representatives who attended the session were the Business Council president; Mrs. Edward W. Heymann, Women's Community Club; Miss Jean Staples, Junior Women's Community Club; Dr. Ramon M. Staley, Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club; Mrs. H. C. Fenno, D. A. R.; Mrs. C. H. Woolmington, Narberth Needlework Guild; H. W. Pfeffer, vice-president of Penn Valley Civic Association; Mrs. C. L. Viguers, Jr., president of Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. W. J. Ezickson, Mulieres; Raymond A. Cabrey, Narberth Baseball Club; Edward C. Griswold, Narberth Bridge Club; Rev. Robert E. Keighon, Narberth Library Board of Trustees; Earle Dickie, Harold Speakman Post 356, American Legion; Mrs. Margaret M. Dickie, Legion Auxiliary; Salvatore Spinelli, Narberth Italian-American Citizens Club; Mrs. Fred Derby, Kings Daughters; Charles Chain, Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club. Mrs. Woolmington represented the W. C. T. U. in the absence of President Mrs. R. C. Kennedy.

On the Bounding Main, Spooks at Election Time; Grey Lady, Grey Horse

by A. S. J.

And now, dear readers, it seems that we promised you some exclusive Halloween interviews for today; a message from the astral world. We must confess, we had a bit of trouble. It was a clear, starry night when we set out in the direction of the nearest cemetery, feeling most businesslike and unafraid (well, almost). We met several little people on the way—ghosts, witches, walking frogs, and even a red devil. "Would you give us an interview?" we asked politely. But they all scurried away except one who was a democrat. Everyone we questioned, however, turned out to be flesh and blood, and not the spirits for which we were searching.

So on we went to the cemetery and sat us down on Great-Aunt Martha's tombstone. We felt, somehow, that it was just a little nicer to be perched on a familiar stone in this gray and shadowy world. And so we sat; and our imagination filled with busy comings and goings of unfriendly ghosts that were not particularly welcome. But nothing we could put a finger on. They seemed to be disappearing just as we saw them. Sad and discouraged, we left the cemetery and hid ourselves to Cynwyd, to the haunts of the Colonel's little grey lady. We crept stealthily into the orchard, and whizzed around an apple tree just in time to see the flashing of a grey

Forty-four operators handle Cynwyd's 21,000 local and long distance calls each day. Here is a picture of some of these operators at work, connecting Cynwyd with all parts of the world. Standing at the extreme left is Miss May A. Mooney, chief operator. The Bell Telephone Company will hold an open house program at its central office, 321 Levering Mill road, next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Did you ever hear your voice as others hear it over the telephone?

Residents of this section will have an opportunity to listen to their own telephone voice next Wednesday,
Thursday and Friday when the Bell Telephone Company holds an open house program at its central office, 321 Levering Mill road, Cynwyd.

"Hearing how you sound to others over the telephone is made possible by a 'voice mirror,'" explained Wil-

WILLIAM POWELL, JR.

Local manager, is host of several exhibits that are brought to Cynwyd especially program.

Open house visitors will see operational complete some of the 21,000 telephone calls that originate at the Cynwyd switchboard each day; the telephone test table, where telephone troubles are tracked down; the "main frame," where telephone lines from all sections served by the Cynwyd exchange are brought to one central point, and other intricacies of complex equipment needed to provide telephone service.

This is a somewhat different picture from the one that greeted customers of the King Drug Store at Bala and Union avenues in 1899, when the first telephone switchboard was installed in that section. It was 15 inches wide, contained positions for 50 telephones and was hung on a wall behind the prescription counter.

William McCormick, now of Del-chester Farms, helped install that early type board. He recalled today that among the early subscribers
were Cranston Coal Yard, West Laurel Hill Cemetery, residence of Frank Thompson, and residence of David E. Williams.

Stanley King, Cynwyd pharmacist, also has some vivid recollections of early telephone service. During the first two years, calls were made only during the hours the drug store was open to the public. Later he strung a wire from the store to his bedroom, upstairs, but he was quick to abandon this plan and employed a young man to operate the switchboard during the night.

By 1904, the telephone and pharmacy businesses had both developed to a point where it was no longer possible for both to exist in the same room and a new four-position switchboard was installed in the building adjacent to the drug store. There were 169 telephone subscribers in the Cynwyd section by that time.

The telephone business continued to expand throughout the next generation and by 1925 it was necessary for the Bell Company to erect its own building. A modern central office was constructed on Levering Mill road and this building will be the scene of the open house program next week.

Today, there are more than 4100
telephones in the Cynwyd exchange, and 44 operators handle the 21,000

local and long distance calls originating daily. More than 300 residents of the Bala-Cynwyd and Narberth sections are owners of Bell System securities.

Everyone in this section is invited to go behind the scenes at the Bell Company's open house. Tours will be made from 2 to 9 p. m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Despite numbers of Philadelphia workers who reside in the suburbs half the population of "The Kingdom of Montgomery" is supported by industries—including agriculture . . . the result of years of amazing growth. (Concluding article in a series about this county, by MALCOLM J. ROWE.)

Figures from a recent survey show, perhaps to the surprise of many residents of this county, that industrial establishments located here provide the incomes for at least half the population.

Reasing his conclusions on the census figures for 1930 and on the reports from local industries, Franklin

Spencer Edmonds, White Marsh township attorney, tax authority, State Senate candidate, has shown that industrial growth in Montgomery county has made it more or less an independent unit.

There are 519 industrial establishments employing over 40,000 people, it is reported, and the last industrial census in 1936 records a payment in wages by these companies of over $10,000,000 representing a capital of $163,806,800. Total annual production amounts to almost two hundred million dollars.

Few people realize the sources and varieties of industries in Montgomery county. All had their beginning with the very humble iron works established some time before the Revolutionary War in what is now Valley Forge. The British in 1777 burned and generally destroyed those, but they were rebuilt afterward by the Potts family. Caught in the swing of the Industrial Revolution, the county rapidly increased the number and type of her industries after the War of 1812. Blast furnaces were established along with rolling-mills and steel works.

Plymouth, West Conshohocken, Port Kennedy, Pottstown, Norristown and a number of other thriving towns saw the construction of furnaces during this period, and by 1880 the products from county furnaces amounted to seven million dollars.

Hand in hand with the iron and steel industry came those of textiles, glass, paper, and of course in the earlier years, lumber. Awright's power loom of 1785 brought the manufacture of textile fabrics to Montgomery county and gradually the textile industry became the most important of them all. By 1810, ten thousand looms and three hundred carding machines were in operation. Two cotton mills were built, and up to the Civil War numerous factories handling textiles were established.

The basis for the plate glass industry of today was laid with the establishment of a glass factory at Norristown in 1878 by a Philadelphia concern. At various places in the county, many types of glassware are manufactured today.

Before the dawn of the nineteenth century, the first paper mills in the county were set in operation. Writers in the year 1758 found Mill creek, in Lower Merion, as having a paper mill known as "Roberts' grist and paper mill." It was supplemented a few years later by the Rockhill and old Schetz mill, also built in Lower Merion and for many years a producer of hand-made paper. In White Marsh Township the Riverside paper mill was soon built, adding to the list of paper products a fine grade of book, card and envelope paper. Mills in Bridgeport and Norristown even by 1880 were turning out products worth more than half a million dollars yearly.

Early among all industries and still important in Montgomery county is farming. During recent years much has been done to better the position of agriculture by the Montgomery County Agricultural Conservation Association working under the AAA. A recent report from the former organization shows that farm land totaling 10,034 acres was improved by soil-building practices in last year's AAA farm program, with 453 county farmers assisting.

For this work 447 farmers participating in the program have received over twenty thousand dollars; farms representing about one-fourth of the total cropland of the county have co-operated. A bird's-eye view of the entire project can be obtained by scanning the improved acreage. New seedlings included 3,468 acres of clover and timothy; 744 acres of alfalfa, 2,726 acres of grasses or legumes. Lime and fertilizer were used for soil-building on over 3,500 acres, and additional projects such as the planting of forest trees involved 30 acres; nitrogen to soil conserving cropland in orchards and vineyards, 112 acres.

In spite of activity in farming the great preponderance of manufactures over agriculture is evidenced by figures taken during a period of prosperity when agricultural products amounted to about seven million dollars against almost 250 million for manufactured products.

Surprising are the figures of Montgomery county's total industries, the splendid result of years of interesting growth. Broken down into classes there are 114 textile establishments, employing 15,000 people; 102 food product plants, employing 1782; 39 metal products concerns, employing 13,770; 56 printing establishments, employing 1953, and lesser industries including chemicals, plate glass and stone, leather and rubber goods, lumber and its manufacture, lime and quarry products, tobacco and its products, railroad repair shops, etc.

The "Kingdom of Montgomery" it can be called, this vast workshop which sends products the world over. Within its borders are towns built around the industries, and other towns purely residential which are the outgrowth of a thriving metropolis next door.

By A. M. Fritsch

Through the ages the moon has merited wonder as well as admiration. Often has man been caught from dreams ethereal by the insistent why or wherefore of youth.

Without moving out of the old easy chair or putting down the after-supper pipe you may demonstrate the phases of old luna to the human question box in simple fashion with the aid of the side-wall light bracket and a tennis ball. Have the youngster stand at a point about five feet from and side-light (the sun) and, holding a tennis ball (the moon) at arm's length before him, turn slowly on his heel in a complete circle. His eye (the earth) will see new moon, full moon, last quarter all unfold before him. For best results snap off other lights in the room.

While you are giving the lesson you might impart a few facts about our nocturnal are-light. It rises about an hour later each successive night. Its diameter, 2,162 miles, is about one-fourth that of the earth, so it could pass between New York and San Francisco without touching either. The distance to the moon averages 239,000 miles. A lunar eclipse can occur only at full moon, the greatest number possible in a single year being three.

If you have any doubts as to the moon's being spherical, have a look through a pair of binoculars when it's nearly full again. It's worth a look.

The Squibble Scrapbook says: "Many of us stop on life's second base and wait for someone to bat us home."

Merion Legion to Church

An invitation to attend an Armistice day service at the Overbrook church at 11 A. M., November 6, has been extended to the Merion Legion post by Dr. George Emerson Barnes. Legion members and their families will find a section of the church reserved for them.

On Tuesday night, at the Merion tribute house, the newly elected officers were installed. Guest speaker was Lieutenant Colonel Thomas R. Stillwell, assistant manager of the Philadelphia office of the United States veterans administration.

DR. WALTON says:

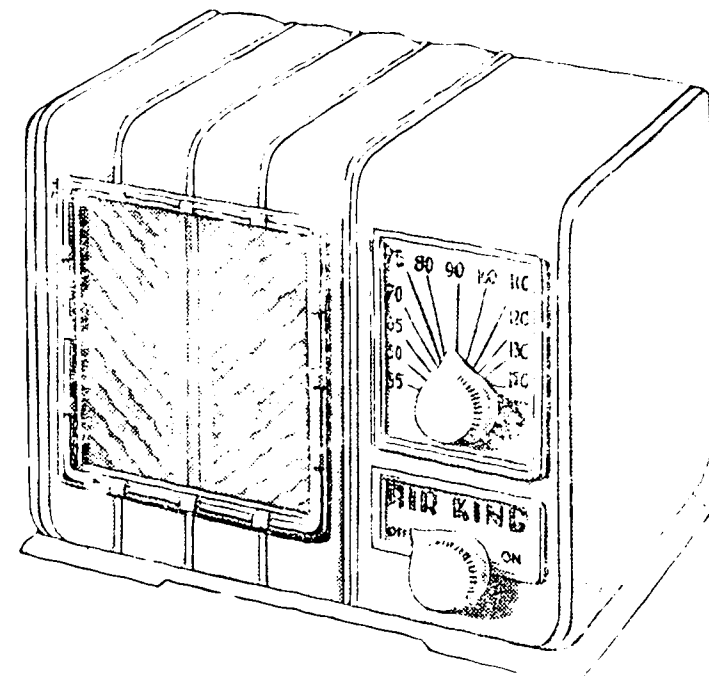

Lay your glasses on the edge of the lens, so that the surface of the lens does not come in contact with anything. Even soft material collects dust, which makes minute scratches on the finely polished surface.

Here's something timely for you!

They Take Pride in Their Jobs

Wherever you find telephone men and women and talk with them for a while, you'll notice these things:

A certain pride in the job they're doing. A feeling that it's part of an important service to the community and the nation. A desire to do the job the best they know how.

You'll notice, too, a strong sense of loyalty to their company and a sincere friendliness that has made
"the voice with a smile" something more than a famous phrase. Perhaps all this is best summed up in another famous phrase—"the spirit of service."
All America knows what that means.
It has been demonstrated in fire, flood and storm—and in your everyday telephone service, the finest in the world.

The more you use your telephone service, the more it is worth to you.
Let it help you do your shopping, run your errands, speed up your business affairs and keep you in touch with friends and family everywhere. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

Hears Views on Timely Topics

Peace propaganda is making a situation where bullying nations feel de-mocracies have not enough backbone to fight, claimed Mrs. Josephine Hop-wood, Delaware county chairman of legislation, at the meeting of the club Tuesday.

Mrs. Hopwood spoke of Hitler and Roosevelt as two men with colorful personalities who are loved by many, but whereas Hitler preached self sacrifice and hard work, Roosevelt had not yet preached hard work and maybe we would get somewhere if he did. She agrees with Representative Martin Dies that those aliens in this country who do not abide by our way of life should be given a return ticket home. She feels that the referendum vote for war contained in the Ludlow amendment would keep us from preserving a united front in time of crisis.

Reservations for the reciprocity
luncheon at Green Hills Farm, November 15, must be in to Mrs. J.
E. Barrell by November 13.

The education committee is giving a bridge luncheon of five tables today at the home of its chairman, Mrs. J.
A. Hongler, proceeds of which will go to buy a permanent picture for the Narberth public school. With Mrs.
Hongler on the education committee are Mrs. Arthur Muller, Mrs. W. R.
Knauer, Mrs. G. M. Cochran and Mrs.
C. A. Farmer.

Mrs. Harry Helson will review
"The Day of Battle" by Vincent Saracian at the meeting of the group on literature and international relations Tuesday at Mrs. Thomas L.
Evans, 268 Kent road, Wynnewood, and Mrs. A. J. Sigel will talk on the Czecho-Slovakian situation. Co-hostesses for dessert luncheon will be Mrs.
Ivan C. Kuhns and Mrs. S. C. Campbell.

The committee of the home department will meet at 11 A. M., November 11, at the home of the chairman, Mrs.
Jesse S. Harris, and the project committee will meet at the same day at Mrs. E. H. Cockrills.

Mrs. Hongler announced a county motion picture luncheon to be held at the Bellevue-Stratford, November 28—Sue Reed, fashion commentator, and Rev. Jack Hart speakers—preceded by a preview at the Boyd at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. J. N. Speck, borough major in the Red Cross drive, reminded members to give their support.

Narberth Juniors

Eleven new members have been elected by the Junior Women's Community Club of Narberth. Last night a book talk was given by Mrs. Towne of Ambler, at the literature group's meeting at Mrs. Robert H. Callahan's, 1015 Locust avenue. Next Monday at a study group meeting at Mrs. E.
F. Grier, Gray's, 1043 Wood lane,
Lancaster, Dr. F. Munroe Purse, Nar-berth osteopath and pediatrician, will discuss on prevention and care of children's diseases. Miss Kay Wheeler will be in charge of a rummage sale next Friday the 11th. First blanket on the new club list was drawn at last week's meeting by Mrs. Richard Gillis.

Gamma Phi Beta

The Philadelphia Alumni Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority held a buffet supper and Founder's Day party Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Harry Wilson of Germantown.
She is of Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, which was established in 1935.

Gamma Phi Beta was established in 1874 at Syracuse and has forty-nine active Chapters and eighty-five Alumni Chapters in the United States and Canada. Mrs. Russell Callow, Bala-Cynwyd, is province director of the sorority for the northeastern part of the United States and Canada.

Ten colleges were represented. There was an informal program in charge of Miss Farah Evans. Those attending from the Main Line were Mrs.
Callow, Miss Marion McChesney,
Mrs. W. O. Miller, of Cynwyd; Miss
Ruth Wagner, Ardmore; Miss Alice Holmes of Overbrook and Miss Virginia Hildreth, of Wynnewood.

And please turn to page 7

Rev. Frank Duncombe, pastor of the Bala-Cynwyd M. E. Church, Lev-ering Mill road and Bala avenue, announced today that there will be evening services beginning next Sunday, November 6, at 8 P. M. The minister will preach at the morning service when twenty new members will be received.

The Egyptian Theater has secured a quantity of paintings by local artists which will continue to be on der direction of Mrs. John D. Gill, of Mrs. John D. Gill, Chairman Bala-Cynwyd, who is chairman of international relations in the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held 10:15 A. M. Monday, at the New Century Guild, 1297 Locust street, Philadelphia. The meeting is open to all chairmen and interested club women in the southeastern district. Subject for discussion will be the possibility of dictatorship in the Western Hemisphere.

There will be a card party at the home of Mrs. A. Bartlett Stryker, Harrington and Woodleave, Bryn Mawr, November 11.

long enough for the routine business of the evening and some special announcements.

Most important was the one that it will soon be time for Merion No. 1 to put on its annual movie benefit to raise money to give baskets to poor families at Christmas time. This is an old tradition in the Liberty Troop and it is hoped that this year will see the largest sale of tickets in the history of this important activity.

New Meeting Place for Merion Red Dragons; Hallowe'en and Liberty ...

Wednesday at 8 P. M., at the home of Howard Longstreth, Old Gulph road, Haverford, plans will be made for the annual Main Line District banquet. The assemblage will include chairman of the activities committee Howard Longstreth, Roy Johnson, Francis Brooke, Al Borden, Howard Valentine, Robert Johnson, Walton Forstall, Jr., and Walter Rosengarten.

The Main Line District Court of Honor and Board of Review will be held 7:15 P. M. Tuesday, at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. Merion
No. 1 is the host troop. Those from this district having applications in for court include Merion No. 1—R. L.
Watrous, Jr., John Vogel, John Mraz
and Lee Krauss, Jr.; Wynnewood No.
1—George Woodrow.

This notice has been issued by Everett N. Strang, chairman of the Main Line district advancement committee. A meeting of the advancement committee will be held November 15 at the Ardmore Branch Office, opposite the Autocar Co., Ardmore. This is very important to all troop representatives as one of the issues to be discussed is how the representatives should assume responsibilities that go toward making better advancement within their own particular troops.

Merion No. 2

One of the most important announcements to come from Merion's Red Dragon Troop was given by the scoutmaster, Samuel J. Bunting, Jr., at troop meeting last Friday night when, around an "indoor campfire" of logs and red electric light he announced a new troop meeting place:
over the Harris and Bunting real estate office on Montgomery avenue, Cynwyd.

The next troop meeting will be held in the new quarters at 7:30 o'clock next Friday evening. It is hoped that any boys living within the range of Merion No. 2 who wish to get into scouting will come and see what this troop is like. It would be a pleasure to have you.

TOM PERRY,
Troop Reporter.

Merion No. 1

The spirit of Hallowe'en interrupted the Liberty Troop's meeting last Monday evening causing small attendance and a high state of excitement in the minds of those boys who did come to meeting. For this reason the meeting was short and only held forth guest artist at The Women's Club of Bryn Mawr, Monday. Miss Ozga is a pupil of Adam Quirillo, conductor and teacher in New York City. Mrs.

David Wilbur Horn, chairman of music, is in charge.

There will be on display in the clubrooms an assortment of scholarship bulbs. This is the fourteenth year these fine Holland-grown bulbs have been sold to supply a scholarship fund whereby some Lower Merion high school graduate may further her education in an approved college.
These bulbs have increased the interest in flowers and civic pride throughout the Main Line, as well as extended help to students interested in scholarship.

Books will be distributed to members of the Book Club, by Mrs. J.
Walter Hammonds, chairman.

In the observance of Art Week periodicals by prominent Main Line artists were placed in the store windows of Lancaster avenue by Mrs. James M.
Richardson, chairman of Art of the club. She will display another periodical by a Main Line artist at the clubrooms Monday.

skirt off into a mistier region. Two frightened eyes peered from the dark and then were gone. This was unusual, we thought: people scaring ghosts instead of vice versa. And we didn't even say "boo."

Although we waited long hours under the apple tree the little grey lady did not return. Finally, we dragged our tired and disconsolate selves away and headed up Montgomery avenue. With a feeling of resignation we walked into the yard of the old Merion Meeting house. Here, if anywhere, a ghost would come. But we hardly looked around; just sat down and waited in a dull, routine way.

We were therefore surprised to hear a rustling, see a shadow move and find a dapple grey horse of some what dim proportions standing before us. He seemed to stare, too, and looked at us as if to say, "Whatever are you going to do, go ahead, I'm part of it." When we smiled weakly he seemed surprised and asked if he could talk. We nodded sadly, he pawed the ground.

"Why are you here when no one else is?" we asked.

"Because I'm tired of it all," he said. "I've been wandering around for years, since the revolutionary soldiers left me and never came back. I was going to tell the general I was sorry, didn't mean to desert the army. But it was so cold. It's been on my conscience for years. But I can't even find out who won the war. Every time I ask, 'Who won?' they say 'The Republicans will. Election's next week.' That is until the last few years when it's been Democrats. But I don't care about all that and they don't care about me. That's why I'm out tonight. I want to be killed. There aren't even any horses around to haunt. I want to die."

"But you can't," we protested.

"Ghosts can't die. We can't kill you."

"Ordinary people can't, of course," he insisted, and then an expression of understanding broke over his face as he looked closer. "But you aren't, are you? Oh, dear, I'm wasting my time here. I must be off to Trenton. I said they weren't coming here but the others would hide."

"Whatever are you talking about? Who did you think we are? Why are the others hiding? Who's in Trenton?"

He seemed impatient to be off, and called his answer over his shoulder. "The Martians, of course. We heard it over the radio waves. We're sensitive to them, you know. They have the death ray that's why the others are hiding. But me, I want to die. So goodbye!" and the clatter of hooves faded off in the night.

Musical Musings

By JOSEPH E. BARONE

Books for the Music-Lover

While a technical knowledge is the best background for the appreciation of music, there are several excellent books available to the layman who wishes to cultivate a better understanding for the great classic literature, without delving too deeply into the matter.

Of these, Charles O'Connell's two volumes, "The Victor Book of the Symphony," and "The Victor Book of the Opera," are the most indispensable. Written in clear, non-technical language, they offer a concise, descriptive resume of all the important operatic and symphonic works, together with any historical facts which may add to their enjoyment. Wherever necessary, the author has also contributed thematic material in order to better recall some particular passage. With the aid of these books, even the most inexperienced of music-lovers will be able to derive a greater pleasure from musical performances.

For the opera-goer, I would suggest reading Marcia Davenport's "Of Lena Geyer," a deeply moving story of the rise of a great prima donna. Replete with vivid "incidences" involving famous musical personalities, it seems more like an actual biography than fiction. The intimate references to backstage are startling for their reality.

A delightful little book for the musical amateur is Catherine Drinker Bowen's "Friends and Fiddlers." Concerned with "amateur quartets, fiddlers, wild-eyed cellists, and viola playing wives," it moves at a gay pace through the joys and despondencies of non-professional players.

Already familiar to most music-lovers is Deems Taylor's amusing collection of musical discourses called "Of Men and Music." Instructive, revealing, and pleasantly provocative, it is sure to stimulate the most indifferent of listeners.

And for a really fine biography, devoid of more dates and state facts, nothing compares with Samuel Chotzinoff's magnum opus, "Eroica." Based on the outstanding incidence in the life of Beethoven, it is ideally suited for the person who finds Thayer, Rolland and Schuettler perhaps a bit overladen.

It would be well to keep in mind that while the list will appeal to both the beginner and the veteran music-lover, it is especially designed for the layman with but a modest technical background.

Are We Men—or Cake-Eaters?

A Guest Editorial on Art, by H. S.

If nothing else, National Art Week has given suburbanites a keen insight into their own state of mind. It is a well-known postulate among critics and other arm-chair philosophers that art reflects the times. Generally, this axiom holds true. Victorian art was essentially Victorian. The late nineteenth century was characterized by revolution in both politics and art. The post-war period reflected confusion. But the suburbs are evidently an exception. Local painters, whose pictures hang this week in shop windows and exhibits throughout the township, in 1938, a period of intense struggle, of war, crumbling democracy, suffering, frustrated ideals—express total indifference to the dynamic qualities of our times. Vague landscapes, pretty still-lives, an occasional weak portrait seem to constitute the limit of local imagination. One may wonder whether this "let them eat cake" attitude will not be followed by a storm expressed in other than artistic terms.

However, even if we judge the local product on an "art for art's sake" basis, we must come to very nearly the same conclusions. A still-life with an idea is a work of art; a still-life without an idea is a waste of paint. Many a Main Line artist is deficient in ideas. His technique is to copy something conventionally, apply color and sign his name in ultramarine (he wouldn't use scarlet). If this technique were followed faithfully, a presentable piece of work might conceivably be created. Too often carelessness crops in. He (and she especially she) does not draw carefully. His light and shadow are faulty. His composition is ill-arranged. He attempts to cover his mistakes with broad blotches of color or irregular lines, distorted in the wrong places.

Not all the paintings we have seen hereabout are badly drawn. Some of them even show a good use of color, and peculiarly enough the better paintings are rendered in media other than oil. In very few is there considerable detail. And in none evidence of the superb draftsmanship and dynamic spirit which characterizes modern American art.

Local artists may well heed the ex-

Boy Scouts

All scout troops in the Main Line District are urged to adopt the Standard Troop Budget Plan. Out of some twenty-four troops in this district, but four—Ardmore No. 1, Ardmore No. 4, Ashland No. 1, and Bala No. 1—have adopted the plan so far, a poor rating for such a district.

Simply by agreeing to pay 50 cents a year registration fees for each boy out of the troop treasury and adding to this required item any of the suggested plans, a troop adopts the budget. Suggested plans are payment of subscriptions to Boys' Life, badges and insignia, troop supplies, program material, welfare work and the sinking fund.

Plans for the twentieth annual Children's Book Week—November 13 to 19—are being pushed rapidly among schools and libraries of Pennsylvania, according to Dr. Lester K. Ade, superintendent of Public Instruction. Every year since Book Week was first observed in 1919, educators, librarians, Boy Scouts, book sellers, community organizations, and local clubs have co-operated in making this important project a success.

Main Line automobile owners soon after November 1 will begin receiving 1939 renewal registration applications. If you have changed address this year, you'll have trouble getting license plates promptly unless you fill in change of address forms promptly. Two are necessary—R.V.G. 2-A for registration and R.V.G. 2-B for operator's license. They may be had from motor clubs and notaries public.

Chevrolet Takes Big Strides Ahead for 1939

New Aero-stream styled bodies combine with major mechanical improvements to provide new beauty, safety, comfort and operating ease, in the 1939 Chevrolets, presented October 22, and featured at the big auto shows this month. The new models are offered on two chassis, the Master De Luxe and the Master 85, both of which are powered with Chevrolet's famous six-cylinder valve-in-head engine.

A new vacuum gear shift mechanism with steering column control, optional on all models at small extra cost, does 80 per cent of the work of shifting gears. The Master De Luxe series features a new riding system, in which a brand new Chevrolet Knee-Action mechanism is scientifically co-ordinated with new ride stabilizer and double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers to furnish a smooth, soft ride.

Central picture is the new Master De Luxe Sport Sedan. Upper right: front end view of the 1939 car; Upper left: Master De Luxe front suspension unit, complete; Lower left: accessibility and finger-tip ease of operation are two major features of Chevrolet's vacuum gear shift with steering column control; Lower right: As the handbrake on all models is re-located under the cowl, front compartment floor is cleared in cars with vacuum gear shift.
